

Local Snapshot: A Community Mural Project

This portrait series celebrates our Cape Cod culture: the unique, hard-working, creative and fun-loving nature of our locals.

Brandon & Justin Madison, twin brothers, both commercial lobster fishermen, whose shirts in the portrait display each of their captains: Bro Cote and Pete Brown. The captains were a source of inspiration teaching the Madison brothers' the trade and cultivating their passion for work at sea.

Arlene Johnson, mother, grandmother and lifelong educator, avid birder and gardener, who at over 80 years old, still walks with her husband to a popular ice cream shop to have iced coffee and a treat at the ice cream counter every day.

Tim Friary, father of three and owner and master farmer at Cape Cod Organic farms, one of the first organic farms on the Cape. He shares seasonal fruits & veggies all over the Cape and even raises pigs for organic meat.

Sarah Swain, singer and songwriter, mother of three, gallery owner and president of a non-profit organization helping those on the Cape dealing with cancer, started in honor and memory of her mother.

These portraits reflect artist Kate DeCiccio's dedication to painting people with an attention to how they see themselves within their community. Kate DeCiccio grew up spending summers in Barnstable Village and Wellfleet, both huge influences to her fascination with natural forms and local narrative.
